About Senatore Cappelli wheat

Cappelli is an ancient durum wheat, more resistant than the more modern ones, it doesn't need any chemical treatment. Its productivity is a little bit lower than others, so it is cultivated by those who want to obtain excellent quality, best nutritive values and an healthy nutrition. Gluten intolerant people can eat it, but NOT those who suffer from celiac disease. In order to preserve the original flavour of our Pasta, milling is made in a traditional way only in our trusted mill, Silvestri in Torgiano (Pg). Our pasta is produced by Pastificio Fabbri (Fi) with a traditional method, called natural drying. In every phase of production (kneading, compression, molding and drying) temperature always remain below 38°C. This means that it usually takes from three to six days to complete the drying process. In this way both gluten and starch remain at their original condition, that makes it easier to digest. Finally, thanks to the molding in bronze, the flavor of our pasta and its characteristics are enhanced.
